

Zeeland

The Location For Your Plastics Pyrolysis Project

Zeeland offers unique advantages for a plastics pyrolysis facility

An established local chemical cluster that provides offtake and partnership opportunities

Off-take and partnership opportunities:

- Zeeland is home to an established chemical cluster with leading international players.
- This provides opportunities for partnerships and offtake agreements to supply feedstock to local chemical companies.
- Zeeland is well connected by pipelines, waterways, rail, and road to other leading chemical clusters in Northwestern Europe, providing easy access to other customers for your products.

Cooperation opportunities:

- The Smart Delta Resources initiative connects companies from the chemical, steel, energy and food industries to achieve industrial symbiosis.
- Current programs of Smart Delta Resources include hydrogen and sustainability initiatives for the chemical industry.

Access to multiple sources of plastic waste from the most densely populated agglomerations in Northwestern Europe

- Zeeland is well placed to source plastic waste from Benelux, northern France and western Germany.
- These countries had 2.8 million tons of unrecycled collected plastic waste available within the 300km catchment area in 2018
- Potential sources in Zeeland include municipal collectors, industrial waste collectors, waste sorters and traders, and conventional plastic recyclers

Easy connection to other leading European chemical clusters by waterways, rail, pipeline and road.

- Convenient inbound logistics for plastic waste as well as to transport the final products by water, road, or rail.
- Plastic waste can be imported via the North Sea Port terminals in Vlissingen or Terneuzen.
- Transport via barges on canals is available into other parts of the Netherlands, Belgium, France and Germany.
- A naphtha pipeline connects the chemical clusters of Vlissingen and Terneuzen
- Rail access into the Netherlands available in Vlissingen and into Belgium at Terneuzen.
- Road access for truck-based logistics via the A58 and the N62.

Practical, confidential and cost-free government support to help you implement your project quickly and cost-effectively

- Providing comprehensive information about all aspects of Zeeland as a business location
- Identifying potential partners and supplier linkages
- Supporting you to find the right site for your facility
- Advising on incentives and finance opportunities
- Assisting on labor, tax and legal issues
